The Ferry Fridge FAQS

Is The Ferry Fridge a Food Bank?

No. Community Fridges are not food banks. Their purpose is to prevent good food from going to waste by making surplus food available to the community.

We do not ask people about their circumstances and volunteers do not decide who "needs" food more than anyone else.

There is no judgement, stigma or shame attached to using The Ferry Fridge, or any community service. Everyone is welcome.

Why Does Kirkliston Operate Differently?

Every community fridge operates differently depending on its funding, premises, staffing and volunteer resources.
The Kirkliston project is independently funded through grants and benefits from volunteers who can collect food from multiple locations.

At The Ferry Fridge, Dalmeny and Queensferry Parish Church secures funding to cover FareShare membership and deliveries, which support a range of community projects and activities.

How Is The Ferry Fridge Funded?

The church currently funds FareShare membership through grant funding.

- Previous annual FareShare membership cost: £5,616
- Current annual FareShare membership cost: £3,456

On average we received around £100 a month in donations.
This reduction was necessary due to funding constraints.

Why Can't The Fridge Be Open More Often?

Unfortunately, we do not have suitable space for additional facilities such as a storage shed or self-service access point.
Opening times are also dependent on volunteer availability and FareShare delivery schedules.

The Ferry Fridge FAQS

Is The Ferry Fridge a Food Bank?

No. Community Fridges are not food banks. Their purpose is to prevent good food from going to waste by making surplus food available to the community.

We do not ask people about their circumstances and volunteers do not decide who "needs" food more than anyone else.

There is no judgement, stigma or shame attached to using The Ferry Fridge, or any community service. Everyone is welcome.

Why Does Kirkliston Operate Differently?

Every community fridge operates differently depending on its funding, premises, staffing and volunteer resources.
The Kirkliston project is independently funded through grants and benefits from volunteers who can collect food from multiple locations.

At The Ferry Fridge, Dalmeny and Queensferry Parish Church secures funding to cover FareShare membership and deliveries, which support a range of community projects and activities.

How Is The Ferry Fridge Funded?

The church currently funds FareShare membership through grant funding.

- Previous annual FareShare membership cost: £5,616
- Current annual FareShare membership cost: £3,456

On average we received around £100 a month in donations.
This reduction was necessary due to funding constraints.

Why Can't The Fridge Be Open More Often?

Unfortunately, we do not have suitable space for additional facilities such as a storage shed or self-service access point.
Opening times are also dependent on volunteer availability and FareShare delivery schedules.